Cenotaph Location

Hammonds Plains Road

Front – Facing the inside of the field

The names of all "recognized services" are displayed on varying sides of the Cenotaph.

Cenotaph will be 18' High, 8' wide, and 5' 6" deep

May their sacrifice never be forgotten

Back – Facing Hammonds Plains Road

Text should be large enough to read at a distance, high enough to see in a crowd

The poppy is the most recognizable Remembrance symbol. Lest we forget, and the poem attached are as well timeless symbols/parts of Remembrance Day Ceremonies.

Side

All too often, the service and contributions military families are overlooked. Their sacrifice should be recognized as the pain that they endure can last a lifetime ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

In time of conflict, men and womar have always answered Canada's call to arms. On the home front, their families have stood guard. They have dealt with the absence, and at times with the tragic loss of their loved ones.

The sacrifice of Veteran's families should never be forgotten for they are the heroes of all those who have served.

The Memorial Cross, often referred to as the Silver Cross for Mothers was created in 1919 to commemorate the dead of the Great War. The original Cross bore the cypher of King George V (GRI) and was worn around the neck from a 750 mm long, 11 mm wide, purple ribbon. Purple stands for suffering and mystery and traditionally was the stainedglassmaker's color for black, expressing negation, mourning, and death.

The Cross was reinstituted in August 1940 for the Second World War with the cypher of King George VI (GVIR) in the center. It is known however that the first 5,000 Crosses issued for Second World War dead were of the old George V version. It is in January 1945, in consequence of a common practice of the recipients to have the Cross privately mounted on a broach by a jeweller, that the Cross was officially modified to be worn on a broach instead of around the neck. The Cross was revived again in December 1950 for the Korean conflict and was eventually modified to include our current Queen's cypher (EIIR) following Her Majesty's Accession (shown above). This is the version that is still issued today. A major review of the criteria became effective on 1 January 2007, expanding eligibility to all servicerelated deaths and allowing the member to select up to three potential recipients of the Cross. On 12 December 2008, these changes were made retroactive to 7 October 2001 (vs 1 January 2007) to ensure all deaths occurring since the beginning of the international campaign against terrorism would be treated in a similar fashion.
