Halifax Regional Police - Board of Police Commissioner's Dashboard February 17th, 2016

Community Engagement

HRP recently launched a Flashback Friday campaign on social media to share our history with our citizen. In honour of African Heritage Month, the February 5 post (see above) featured a photo of Cst. Rick Smith, one of our first black police officers, using a Call Box back in March, 1970.

On February 4, HRP and Halifax District RCMP launched Say Something if you See Something, a human trafficking awareness campaign aimed at employees in the hospitality and transportation industries. The campaign is supported by a free resource kit that includes posters advising people that human trafficking/sexual exploitation is a crime, as well as brochures that outline what employees should look out for and how they should respond if they believe human trafficking/sexual exploitation is occurring at their workplace.

Two of HRP's finest made a young man's day during his recent stay at the IWK Health Centre. Nine-year-old Sean is a huge police fan who plans on donning the blue to serve with HRP.

The Citizens' Police Academy for Seniors, which launched on January 26, is proving to be very popular with the 55+ crowd. Attendance is growing every week with over 30 seniors coming out for February 2 session.

The free four-week program is for seniors who are interested in learning about policing and emergency services in our community.

There's still time to register to attend the last two sessions being held on February 16 and 23. Senior's can reserve a spot by calling Amy Demone at 902-490-5200 or sending an email to demonea@halifax.ca
