In 1913, Hugh R. Silver purchased twenty acres of land from Richard Owen. Prior to Mr. Silver purchasing the land, there were six previous owners. A farmhouse was already situated on the property that had been built around 1844 by James Wilson, a distiller. When Mr. Silver purchased the property he demolished the old farmhouse and erected this structure.

Often it is difficult to discover when a building has been replaced. Sometimes the original structure may still be standing with alterations being made to the building over time. However, in a book written by Dr. J. P. Martin regarding the history of Dartmouth he states the following: "Wilson lived at "Esperanto Farm." Later owners were Anderson, Evans, Owens and H. R. Silver who tore down the old farmhouse some 40 years ago and rebuilt on the site. It is now Wyndholm Apartments." (page 257) Since Martin's book, "The Story of Dartmouth" was published by the author in 1957 and Mr. Silver purchased the property in 1913 this indicates that the structure was probably built shortly after he purchased the Owen farm.

Mr. Silver owned the property for thirty-six years until he sold it to Charles MacCulloch in 1949. Four years later, in 1953, Mr. MacCulloch had the property deeded over to his company name, MacCulloch & Co. Ltd.. It was during this time period that the land around the house was developed into a small subdivision and the address for the Wyndholm Apartments became known as 5 Camden Street (Lot #35). In 1956 Mr. MacCulloch sold the structure to Mrs. Anne Newman who lived in the apartment building and rented out the remaining fifteen apartments. In 1983 she sold the structure to Mr. Sisinio Villacastin who owned the building until 1996, then he sells the property to the present owners, James and Beverly McShane.

Relationship to Personage:

1) Hugh R. Silver:

Hugh Russell Silver was a well-known Halifax businessman who was born in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia. At the time of his death he lived on Inglis Street, in Halifax. He died in Bridgewater, at the Dawson Memorial Hospital in 1954 when he was eighty-seven years old. He was a Halifax merchant who was involved in the import/export trade for a number of years as the President of Silver Ltd..

Mr. Silver was involved in a variety of businesses and associations such as: Vice-President and later President of Maritime Life Assurance Company; Director of the Eastern Trust Company; Vice-President of the Halifax Insurance Company; President of Dominion Molasses Company in Dartmouth; and the first President of the Lord Nelson Hotel and was instrumental in the Hotel being constructed.

Mr. Silver was also an active member of a number of organizations, such as: President of the Halifax Board of Trade, Past Commander of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron and a member of both the Waegwoltic and Saraguay Club as well as the Halifax Club.

2) Charles MacCulloch:

Charles MacCulloch was born in 1911 at Kennetcook, Hants County, Nova Scotia on a homestead that was in the family since 1781. He was the son of Everett and Emma (Akerman) MacCulloch. He attended grade school in Kennetcook, and in 1928 he arrived in Halifax to work. His first job was as a rock crusher in Fairview. Shortly afterwards he became an apprentice carpenter and helped to construct the Lord Nelson Hotel. At night he took courses in architectural design and earned a degree from the Nova Scotia Technical College (now known as DalTech). Later he was awarded an honorary degree (L.L.D.) from St. Francis'Xavier University in Antigonish.

The first building he designed was the Knox Presbyterian Church, which is said to have been responsible in catapulting him into a highly successful construction and building business. He has been considered a self-made businessman. MacCulloch formed the MacCulloch & Co. Ltd. in 1937 and this company grew to become the largest shipper of lumber in the Maritimes. In 1956 his company began to concentrate on selling building supplies and real estate rather than producing the lumber. He became the President of MacCulloch Leasehold Ltd., MacCulloch Building Products Ltd., and Oakwood Park Ltd.

After he acquired almost 100,000 acres of timberland surrounding the metropolitan area he became involved in commercial land development. He was one of ten businessmen who made up the Halifax Development Ltd. which was formed "to redevelop a central area of the city into a complex of modern commercial and residential buildings." This included the Scotia Square complex, in Halifax; and the Micmac Mall development, in Dartmouth. He was a Director of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Halicon Ltd., Maritime Life Assurance Ltd., and Chairman of the Metrovision Ltd..

He was also a member of the Advisory Board for Canada Permanent Trust; a Governor of Dalhousie University; a Board member of Mount St. Vincent University, the Atlantic Symphony Society, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and the YMCA. He was a noted athlete during the 1930's and a champion oarsman. He became a Commodore of the Royal NS Yacht Squadron, a member of the Ashburn Golf and Country Club, Saraguay Club, Oakfield Golf and Country Club, Chester Yacht Club, of Nova Scotia and the Mid Ocean Golf Club in Bermuda.

At the time of his death on October 5, 1979, he was 67 years old and was residing at "Monte Vista Farm" in Enfield, Nova Scotia. However, he died from a massive heart attack while vacationing in the South Pacific with his family.

Architectural Merit:

This two and a half storey wooden structure is situated at ¹/₈ Camden Street in Dartmouth and was built around 1913 by Hugh R. Silver. It was designed in an elaborate cottage style and became known as "Wyndholm Farm." When Silver had this home constructed it was situated in the center of a twenty-acre parcel of land which had been previously known as Richard Owens' "Esperanza Farm." (Esperanto Farm)

The Cottage Style indicates that it was a place where one may rest and relax from the hustle and bustle of City life. At one time the structure's verandah overlooked Halifax Harbour and one could easily view the city. The verandah was constructed with large round columns that are decorated with beach stones. These stones were also added as decoration to the façade's concrete block foundation as well as the structure's three huge chimneys.

In Allen Penney's book, "Houses of Nova Scotia," he states that "several different forms of cottages were developed. Possibly the most early seen is the one with a truncated or hipped roof." This structure is quite large with a truncated roof, with overhanging eaves and decorative brackets. The building has numerous windows of various shapes and sizes, including a three bay projection on the Wyndholm Avenue side of the structure. On the first storey façade there is a four-bay styled window situated in a two-storey projection with a gable styled roof. Some windows, especially the gothic styled windows located on the back portion of the structure may have been added later since they appear to be quite modern.

It was during the early 1950's, that the structure was renovated and turned into an apartment building with several private entrances added to access the sixteen apartments.
